II. INTRODUCTION

A. PURPOSE OF THIS REQUEST FOR PROPOSAL

In July of 2023, the Board of County Commissioners of Santa Fe County (“BCC”) approved the County’s 2023 Affordable Housing Plan and the County’s Housing Assistance Grant and Loan Ordinance. Collectively, these documents provide the County the legal authority to provide direct investment into various affordable housing projects, programs and initiatives. Since this time, the County has been in contact with various organizations regarding developing a regional housing investment strategy to address critical housing issues that impact a broad spectrum of local governments, community stakeholders and critical sectors of the local economy. In addition, staff have received direction from the BCC via the Strategic Plan to investigate options for strategic housing collaboration, develop new housing assets and resources, and implement components of the 2023 Affordable Housing Plan. The intent of this RFP is to develop a regional housing investment strategy to aid the County in achieving these strategic plan goals and developing local and regional investment strategies that will guide the County in making informed policy decisions related to financial investment in housing projects, programs and initiatives.

B. BACKGROUND

The County’s 2023 Affordable Housing Plan (SFC Resolution No. 2023-083) has identified a housing shortfall of approximately 14,000 housing units within Santa Fe County and has proposed various programs, policies, projects and initiatives that can be undertaken by the County to address that shortfall. Each program, project and initiative proposed by the Plan, requires some level of financing investment on the part the County. Subsequent to the adoption of the Plan, the BCC’s approved the County’s 2023 Housing Assistance Grant and Loan Ordinance (SFC Ordinance No. 2023-05), which provides the County the legal authority to begin investing in various housing initiatives.

In addition to the Plan and Ordinance, the BCC has provided guidance to staff to pursue housing initiatives of various kinds. This direction is evidenced by the County Strategic Housing Plan Strategies and Objectives under Objective 2.1 (Provide Affordable Housing), which collectively guide staff to begin implementation of the Plan and to explore strategic housing initiatives with outside organizations and stakeholders. For Fiscal Year 2025, the BCC has also appropriated approximately $11mil for affordable housing initiatives, which is the single largest investment in affordable housing in the history of the County.

Though some investment is already occurring through recently Board approved housing programs, a broader investment strategy is needed for two reasons. First, though the 2023 Affordable Housing Plan identified community housing needs, there was not an emphasis on larger regional housing concerns. Since the housing market does not function in a vacuum, it is critical for staff and policy makers to evaluate housing issues at a regional level. This regional approach includes discussions with other local governments, employers and non-profits to determine how housing investment can best address economic development concerns that impact multiple jurisdictions. Secondly, though the 2023 Affordable Housing Plan identified a significant housing shortfall and potential programs, it did not identify the costs and benefits of financial investment in each potential programs or initiatives. In order to make informed investment proposals, it is critical that staff evaluate the estimated level of housing production for each $1 invested by Santa Fe County, as it is in the best interest of the community to maximize housing production in relation to public investment.

The intent of this RFP is to address these two areas and to develop a plan to focus investment in programs, projects and initiatives that provide the greatest community benefit. Creating a regional housing investment strategy of this nature will require looking at all potential investment options, including but not limited to investments in:

- Direct affordable housing development through the County Housing Authority or other development partners,
- Down payment assistance grant programs;
- Home rehabilitation and energy efficiency grant programs,
- Foreclosure and eviction prevention programs,
- The financing of affordable housing projects for private and non-profit development entities,
- Housing project development collaborations with other regional entities,
- The creation of an affordable housing loan fund,
- The donation of land, buildings or other County owned assets for affordable housing purposes,
- The purchase and/or conversion of existing hotels, motels or other structures for the creation of affordable housing projects, and
- Land banking for future growth and development.

The Strategic Housing Investment Strategy will provide data, analysis and recommendations related to investment in local and regional affordable housing initiatives for the County for current and future fiscal years.
