

County Manager's Monthly Update

January 2018

Wildland Fire Safety Community Outreach In February

Join the Santa Fe County Fire Department, our local union and our Wildland and prevention specialists to discuss the upcoming wildland fire season and the risks we all face after a dry winter.

- Learn interior & exterior fire protection safety tips.
- Discuss the Ready, Set, Go program.
- Learn about the reverse 911 system.
- Come meet your local firefighters and take a station tour.
- Bring the kids to meet Sparky the fire dog.
- Free food for the entire family.

County Approves Road Settlement Agreements

The Santa Fe County Commission unanimously approved four separate settlement agreements with the Pueblos of Nambé, Pojoaque, San Ildefonso and Tesuque on Tuesday, January 30, 2018.

The settlements with four Northern New Mexico Pueblos establish rights of way for certain roadways for the next 198 years, two successive 99-year terms.

"I believe the settlement agreements are a reasonable compromise for all parties, which bring fair and responsible resolution to a decades-long issue," said County Manager, Katherine Miller. She continued, "This is a notable accomplishment between all parties involved." Tribal and county leaders applauded the agreements.

Walter Dasheno, Fire Prevention Specialist Urban Wildland, Santa Fe County Employee of the Quarter, 4th Quarter of 2017 Award.

MovieMaker Magazine names Santa Fe #3 Best Place to Work and Live as a Filmmaker

Santa Fe was named #3 Best Place in North America to Live and Work as a Filmmaker, for cities with metro areas of 500,000 or less. It is the third year in a row Santa Fe has ranked in the top five locations in North America.

"Having come off a record year last year, we continue a terrific run of production and job creation in the City and throughout the County of Santa Fe," said Eric Witt, Director of the Santa Fe Film Office.

"The most telling thing about this ranking is that it accounts not only for levels of production but also the overall living experience of working in Santa Fe. This speaks volumes to the world class culture and aesthetic of our area, as well as to the Meeting Dates and Locations:

Saturday, February 3, 2018 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.
Edgewood Station 1 (1Municipal Way)

Saturday, February 10, 2018 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.
Hondo Station 2 (645 Old Las Vegas High Way)

Saturday, February 17, 2018 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.
La Cienega Fire Station 1 (39 Rancho Viejo Blvd)

Saturday, February 24, 2018 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.
Pojoaque Station 1 (17919 US Highway 84-285)

For Further Information, Contact:

Remington Gillum: 505-995-6532 / rgillum@santafecountynm.gov or

Eddie Marquez: 505-995-6583 / eamarquez@santafecountynm.gov

View Settlement Agreements and other related documents

Santa Fe County Day at the Legislature

Santa Fe County Offices and departments lined the West Hall of History on Thursday, January 25, 2018 for Santa Fe County Day. Santa Fe County was also live on Que Suave Radio during the morning with staff discussing various programs.

professionalism of the many county and city divisions involved in filmmaking."

Recent productions in the Santa Fe region include "Only the Brave," the Netflix series "Godless " and "Longmire," the Coen Brothers' "Ballad of Buster Scrugs," and the upcoming feature film "Hostiles" starring Christian Bale, Rosamund Pike, and Santa Fe resident Wes Studi.

<https://www.moviemaker.com/archives/news/best-places-live-work-moviemaker-2018-small-cities-towns/>

Stay Connected with Santa Fe County:

